In February I was on a shoot in Santa Fe, N.M. and as I like to do, I was able to spend a little time out shooting some personal photography.

This photo was one taken at the Cathedral Basilica of St. Francis of Assisi and is a statue of Kateri Tekakwitha. She is the first Indian of North America to be promoted a saint.

In early March I took a drive up to the Quad Cities to Lock and Dam 14 on the Mississippi River. In the winter time it's a great place to see Bald Eagles and there are a bunch that spend the winter there. On the weekends you will see upwards of 50 or more photographers hanging out taking photos!

In the middle of April I was out in the Phoenix, Az. area on a shoot and was able to get a few night shots at Fountain Hills of the sun setting and the beautiful colors of the clouds!

After my shoot in Phoenix in April, I made a side trip out to San Diego, Ca. to see my folks who were vacationing out there.

One of the places that they love to visit for breakfast is Kono's It's a great place and to be on the boardwalk along the Pacific Ocean on a beautiful sunny day is the best!!!

In Holbrook, Az. you'll find one of the two remaining Wigwam Motels left in the USA. It's like stepping into a time machine to see this by gone era from the 1930's along Route 66!

*Just north of Moab.
Utah about 30 miles on Route 128 is the rock formation Fisher Towers. If you like driving in a canyon
along the Colorado River, Route 128 is your road! The scenery along the way is some of the best that you'll ever see in the USA!!!*

In late June I was out in New York City for a shoot and was able to get out one evening and get this great NYC panoramic snap with everything from the Brooklyn Bridge to the Manhattan Bridge and beyond!

Durning my gig in New York City on the other night that I was there I was able to go and see the 9/11 Memorial. It was incredibly moving and somber at the same time and I was glad that I was to get over and see and also snap a few pictures as well!

In July I was shooting for San Juan Pools and we were able to get some gorgeous night shots of this incredible project that they completed this summer! All the elements came together on this shoot and the photos were outstanding!

This final shot from 2014 was in September for The Shoppes at Grand Prairie. I don't know if you can really consider this work having to shoot beautiful models who are out shopping and having fun!

*What a great year this was with some incredible photo
opportunities that I was lucky enough to be a part of! I'm ready to get out there and have a lot of fun again this coming year!!!*

Join me!!! :)

Let's all rock and roll in 2015 and make it the best year that it can be!
